

Abstract of the Invention

A system for automatically configuring I/O devices is provided in accordance with the present invention. The system includes a plurality of I/O devices operatively coupled to each other and a sub-system for determining physical locations of the I/O devices with respect to one another. The sub-system assigns node addresses to each I/O device – each assigned node address corresponds to the physical location of the respective I/O devices.

\\SBSTPA\shared\HAM\ALBR\PI180us\PAT180US.doc